Sound Pressure is the difference between the pressure caused by a sound wave and the ambient pressure of the medium it is passing through. The Sound Pressure Level (SPL) in decibels is 20 x the logarithm of the ratio of the sound pressure to the reference sound pressure of 20 micropascals.

Things are a bit different when you need to find the volume, pressure, or temperature of a gas not at STP. You will need to solve $P V = n R T$ for the dimension you need to find and attach it to the end of the sequence using the roadmap to find 'n' for the gas. Let's take another problem based on the same chemical equation to explore how to set up finding a gas not at STP.

Parts-Per-Million By Volume (ppmv) Parts-per-million by volume is a common way of expressing a concentration in the gas phase. Gases are miscible and, in general, once allowed to come to equilibrium a gas is homogeneous, in other words its constituents are equally mixed.

Gas is one of the four fundamental states of matter (the others being solid, liquid, and plasma). A pure gas may be made up of individual atoms (e.g. a noble gas like neon), elemental molecules made from one type of atom (e.g. oxygen), or compound molecules made from a variety of atoms (e.g. carbon dioxide). A gas mixture, such as air, contains a variety of pure gases.

1. They vary - they are what makes the results a bit different every time you repeat an experiment - i.e. if you measured a ruler 20 times you are going to get a slightly different value each time. E.g. due to your head being in a different position when reading the scale.

Oxygen is the chemical element with the symbol O and atomic number 8. It is a member of the chalcogen group on the periodic table, a highly reactive nonmetal, and an oxidizing agent that readily forms oxides with most elements as well as with other compounds. By mass, oxygen is the third-most abundant element in the universe, after hydrogen and helium. At standard temperature and pressure, two ...

Currently, science knows of precious few methods of simulating gravity on a spacecraft.. These boil down to: using acceleration by thrusting the ship, spinning the ship (or sections of the ship) to utilize "centrifugal force", or placing a large mass under the ship (generally by landing on a planet).. Centrifugal force is the method of choice for obvious reasons.

Ask anybody taking airplane piloting lessons and they'll tell you that taking off is easy, the incredibly hard part is landing. At least landing safely, any fool can land by augering in. Or what Rob Davidoff calls "lithobraking into a low-altitude synchronous orbit.". Naturally this is an order of magnitude harder when doing a tailsitting rocket (Vertical takeoff, vertical landing or VTVL ...

This is a really good and important point. Let me explain my reasoning why I think a GTX 580 is still good.
